Pick any two puzzles off of Matt Bishop's old course websites and answer them both with at least one paragraph each. I'll e-mail the links to the class so you can find these.

At least one of the puzzles you answer needs to be about ethics, and the other can either be about ethics or a security design question. Some of the puzzles are of the "just for fun" variety, avoid those or answer them as a third one as you like, but try to pick two substantive puzzles relevant to security and privacy or ethics.
