Video on Demand (VOD)
For the convenience of both Main Campus and Distance Education students, we provide a system called video on demand (VOD). The system is called Mediasite which stores all the lectures for the entire semester for both main campus and distant students to watch via computer. Students can view the course lectures to make up for a missed class or review. Students will need to use their UNM login and username to access the VOD system. It is up to the instructor to determine how she/he wants the students to use the system. Some instructors have the student’s use VOD in place of going to class; this is dependent upon instructor preference and the amount of live interaction that an instructor requires of his/her students. For student’s to access the VOD system, have them go to the Media Technology Services web page (http://mts.unm.edu/vod.htm) which explains the process they will need to follow in order to access the system. The web page will provide step-by-step instructions on how to access the system and provides the phone numbers of staff who can provide assistance with issues that may arise. Once the semester is over, we delete all recorded lectures unless you want to have DVD copies made. This service is provided for a nominal fee. Please contact Media Technology Services at 277-9009 or mtseng@unm.edu to request DVD copies prior to the end of the semester. If you do not want your lectures recorded, please contact the ITV office by email itu@unm.edu and let us know you do not want your lectures recorded and stored in the VOD system.
